PROTEIN FOODS

Chicken and turkey are "it" again. You've barbecued chicken, but have you tried barbecued giblets? Good . . . interesting hors d'oeuvre items. Simmer gizzard about 10 minutes in slightly salted water. Cut in halves or quarters and thread along with the heart and liver on small metal skewers. Then barbecue over heat about 10 to 15 minutes . . . brushing with your favorite barbecue sauce. Serve piping hot with more barbecue sauce for dipping, if desired.

Even though beef remains steady at wholesale some markets have a number of beef cuts on the feature list. Take particular note of cuts from the chuck. Chuck is—
Chuck full of good eating!
Chuck full of flavor!
Chuck full of uses!
Chuck full of value!

Don't try to oven roast a chuck roast. This is a less tender cut best cooked in a tightly covered container with a little moisture. It takes low to moderate heat for a longer period than an uncovered oven roast. Water may be the moisture, but flavor may be varied by using tomato juice, wine, or fruit juice.

Lamb prices are sliding up. Pork is a little beyond peak of production, but you'll find both meats in all markets. You can even expect to continue finding pork on "specials."

EGGS

The fabulous egg continues in plentiful supply. Eggs are a sheer delight to the menu planner and budgeter. Now is the time to bring out all your egg recipes . . . try new ones and

PRODUCE NEWS

Beaumont and Cherry Valley predict a "relatively" light crop of cherries starting in late May and continuing to late June.

Grapes from the Coachella Valley should appear in about two weeks. Watch for that new black one . . . Beauty Seedless.
